Figure 3. The top panel shows the probability histogram for the number of sample persons with incomes over $50,000. The bottom panel shows the probability histogram for the percentage of sample persons with incomes over $50,000. In standard units, the two histograms are exactly the same.³ (Four hundred persons are chosen at random from a population of 100,000.)